The new babysitter has arrived and wants to make sure the children she is looking after are polite. Because in fact, what does being polite imply? A lot of things! Thanks to 12 lessons, children will learn what is permitted and more importantly, what is strictly forbidden! This humorous book will be produced with foldable flaps throughout which the children will take great pleasure in handling. Indeed for each good manner taught by the babysitter there will be a flap showing the said manner… from the children's point of view! And surprisingly, it differs quite a bit! Giggles are guaranteed!

12 lessons
1) One puts his hand in front of his mouth when he sneezes;
2) One uses polite vocabulary such as "thank you" and "please";
3) One knocks on the door if it is closed;
4) One never attacks smaller ones;
5) One never walks around naked;
6) One says he is "excused" and looks for a toilet rather than peeing anywhere;
7) One sits at the table properly;
8) One never looks under a girl's dress;
9) One never says "What?", one says "Pardon me?";
10) One never picks his nose;
11) One always says "Thank you" when receiving a present;
12) One never whispers to another in the presence of others.

Flap of the corresponding double page:

Règle numéro 1
Quand on est bien élevé, on met sa main devant la bouche pour éternuer.
Et pour jouer aux indiens on met aussi sa main devant la bouche.
Houhouhouhou !!
